

Who could care? Who could care? Life is a journey carried out by many. Is it all peaches and cream? No. But we should all try to improve everyone's quality of life for the goodness out of our hearts and the well being of our planet. We may pratfall as much as anyone else but a true survivor should come back up on his or her feet and keep on getting up because life will pass you by if you don't have that attitude.

Gilead has done a lot for people and it would feel like a rug would be pulled right under us if the government takes funds from Gilead. It would hurt a lot of people in the program and we might suffer if things are taken away from us. Gilead's motto is: "Improving Lives, Building Futures". It would undermine the motto if a gargantuan amount of funding would be cut. It would stunt the growth and progress made by Gilead. Who could we depend on to take care of the weak and the meek? Who would we turn to for help? Please help us as much as possible. That is all I can ask of the CT government.

Gilead has many services to help out the mentally ill. For me personally, they help me out with groceries, medication, and job. They also help out with bills and finances. They have Social Clubs for people to congregate and have social interaction. The Social Club has a softball team, which, gets people out and have fun. Gilead also does one-to-ones and we get to live better lives. Other members get other assistance and I am probably just scratching the surface of what Gilead does for all of us.
